

3-Step Protocol

Unlike a traditional college setting, Dining Services is not the only place where you can have a possible exposure; your kitchen and some academic classes are also areas where you must be vigilant. To help you better manage your food allergies during your enrollment here at The CIA, we have developed a 3-step protocol:

1) Inform 2) Question 3) Protect

PLEASE NOTE:

As we are a culinary training program, students can expect to encounter a variety of different food agents. It is ultimately the student's responsibility to follow their doctor's instructions and follow the protocol as previously described. The CIA will attempt to provide reasonable accommodations, where appropriate, that comply with our program requirements and technical standards.

Important Contacts

Jodi Amato

Director Academic Support Services

Jodi.Amato@culinary.edu

Tel: 845-905-4631

Fax: 845- 451-1034

Genevieve Tarbell

Assistant Director Academic Support Services

Genevieve.Tarbell@culinary.edu

Tel: 845-451-1288

Shannon DiValentino

Disability Specialist

Shannon.DiValentino@culinary.edu

Tel: 845-451-1287

Chas Cerulli

Director of Dining and Kitchen Operations

Chas.Cerulli@culinary.edu

Tel: 845-451-1313

Maryann Sweeney

Director of Health Services

Maryann.Sweeney@culinary.edu

Tel: 845-905-4250

Culinary Institute of America

Students with Food Allergies & Intolerances at The Culinary Institute of America

Here at The CIA, we take your health and safety seriously and strive to partner with you to develop a plan of action to address your food allergy.

Although we cannot promise a completely allergen/cross contamination free environment, communication with personnel, asking questions, and taking proactive steps will greatly reduce your risk.

