The Culinary Meal Plan

A CIA Educational Dining Experience

FOR FRESHMEN

Your freshman guide to CIA's unique meal plan designed to be an integral part of your college living and learning journey.

The CIA Meal Plan

Part of a 360° Culinary Education

Within CIA's living learning lab, you acquire skills not only to produce—but also to dine—from the educational production kitchens.

In turn, you learn by

- expanding your palate
- experiencing a wide range of global cuisines
- tasting and evaluating your peers' work

This hands-on dining experience will help you to focus the future direction of your culinary education—where you will eventually be in those production classes creating meals for other students.

Your daily patronage of production kitchens helps the CIA to achieve educational goals for students and promotes sustainable food practices by reducing waste.

Freshmen have until the end of each class day to use their Blue Points for food produced that day. Blue Points load at 2 a.m. and expire at 11:59 p.m.

Gold Points load at the beginning of each semester. You can add more Gold Points to your account at any time.

20 Blue Points
per class day

325 Gold Points
per semester

M	T	W	T	F	S	S
20 points	20 points	20 points	20 points	20 points
325 points for the semester

The CIA recommends that you use your Blue Points each day during the week and save your Gold Points for the weekend or Down Days.

After your first year, you will gain access to Green Points and increased flexibility to accommodate more varied class schedules.
